

If I were to boil down all the characteristics of greatness to a single word, it would be “humility”.

Charles Swindoll, quoted in Humility by Pat Williams

We must continually choose an attitude of humility—or we will choose arrogance by default.

There are few experiences more enjoyable than meeting a truly humble person. When you are in the presence of humility, you know that you will be received, listened to, and accepted for who you are.

A truly humble person won't try to impress you, manipulate you, judge you, criticize you, or put you in your place. Humble people are safe to be around. You can relax. You can be yourself.
