

Every believer knows that when we walk through the valley of tears, God walks beside us; when we pass through the fire, He draws close to deflect the flames; when we wade through the flood, He is nearby to keep our heads up.

In the midst of any disaster threatening to engulf us, we feel the presence of the Lord as we've never felt before. Other so-called friends may disappear. Their words may falter and their support may vanish. But God is closest in the crises, surrounding us with His presence.

When Your World Falls Apart
David Jeremiah

You and I will be faced with fear. And if we give in to it, we will discover what fear really does. Fear debilitates. It stops us in our tracks. It keeps us from fulfilling our purpose. It is the ultimate weapon of the enemy to keep us from our mission. In all its forms, fear must be conquered.

Find Your Brave
Holly Wagner

For busy citizens of the twenty-first century, it is easy to become overcommitted, overworked, and overstressed. If we choose, we can be connected 24-7. If you are feeling chronically tired or discouraged, it is time to rearrange your schedule, turn off your screens, and spend quiet time with your Creator. He knows what you need, and He wants you to experience His peace and His love.

Resting In His Shadow
Chriswell Freeman