

Christ holds the cosmos in place, and every atom of every molecule continues to function at His command. The rain falls at His command, and the sun shines at His command. He owns it all. And though we may not see or acknowledge it, we could not exist without God's stealth massive provision.

Manna
Steve Farrar

How can we be good disciples? By sharing Christ's message, His mercy, and His love with those who cross our paths. Everywhere we look, the needs are great. Our challenge is clear: we must love God, obey His commandments, trust His Son, and serve His children. When we place our Lord in His rightful place—first place—we will reap a bountiful spiritual harvest that will endure forever.

Resting in His Shadow

Criswell Freeman

When we focus upon our fears and our doubts, we may find many reasons to lie awake at night and fret about the uncertainties of the coming day. A better strategy is to focus not upon our fears, but instead upon our Lord. God is your shield and strength; you are his forever. So don't focus your thoughts on problems, obstacles, or hypothetical disasters that may never come to pass. Instead, trust God's plan and His eternal love for you.

Resting in His Shadow

Criswell Freeman

